Ready, Set, Ride

PICTURE THIS: THE LANDSCAPE ROLLING OUT in front of you. Sunlight peeking through the trees. The wind rushing past as you pedal along Minnesota’s extensive network of paved and rugged routes. Whether you’re a leisurely cruiser, a clipped-in roadie or somewhere in between, there’s no denying the rush of freedom that comes from the saddle of a bicycle.

Home to some of the best biking trails in the country, Minnesota is a cyclist’s paradise. Our 4,000-mile network of paved trails includes scenic lake loops, leisurely city rides, shaded routes through hardwood forests and vista-filled rambles along some of Minnesota’s mightiest rivers. Think Minnesota is flat? Nope. Mountain bikers will find plenty of invigorating, white-knuckle trails throughout the state, as well.

We have bike-sharing programs in multiple cities, tune-up stations on many popular trails and places to mountain bike in the middle of winter. We have charitable bike races, professional bike races and races just for the fun of it. Our biking culture is enthusiastic and welcoming, with friendly local bike shops and riding groups hosting events and spreading the joy of two-wheeled travel. Locals love making our state more accommodating for riders: There are over 23 towns designated as “Bicycle Friendly Communities.”

Whether you’re completely new to cycling or a veteran pedaler, consider this your go-to resource for all things biking in the state. Now all you need to do is grab your helmet, choose a trail and go!

For maps, lists of biking events and clubs, safety tips and trip ideas from local bike ambassadors, visit expamnnesota.com.

AS YOU READ THIS GUIDE, PLEASE NOTE THAT CERTAIN TRAIL “EXTRAS” ARE HIGHLIGHTED WITH THESE ICONS:

TUNE-UP STATIONS
Need to fix a flat tire or tighten a loose bolt on the trail? No problem. More than 40 permanent bicycle tune-up stations are situated along Minnesota state trails and in state parks. Each station offers free tools and an air compressor tire pump for easy and convenient maintenance. For a full list of locations, visit mndnr.gov/tuneup.

WINTER FAT BIKING
Wide rims and huge wheels with giant treads can conquer almost any terrain—even snow and ice-covered Minnesota landscapes. Join the growing number of cyclists who love the thrill of fat biking in winter, available in certain locations, designated with these icons. (While groomed snowmobile and ski trails may look appealing to those interested in fat biking, many of these trails aren’t open to other uses.) For up-to-date information on where to ride fat bikes on state trails and in state parks/recreation areas, visit mndnr.gov/fatbike.

BICYCLE FRIENDLY COMMUNITIES
These Minnesota communities saw the value in becoming more bike-friendly places to live and received national recognition from the League of American Bicyclists as being Bicycle Friendly Communities. Trails with this icon connect to one or more of these communities. For the most up-to-date list, visit bikeleague.org/community.

Pillsbury Forest Mountain Bike Trails
It seems relatively straightforward at first ("How is this different from a cheeseburger?")—but there’s no denying the truth after your first ride. Like the Juicy Lucy, biking in the Twin Cities is more than the sum of its parts—and it’s better here than practically anywhere else in America. So, hop on your pedal-powered chariot (or rent one from Wheel Fun Rentals, various bike shops, or the Nice Ride or Lime bike-sharing services) and take in the sights, sounds and scenic beauty on these popular paved and unpaved trails in Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Chain of Lakes
A local favorite, especially in the summer months, is the 15-mile bike path circling the interconnected Chain of Lakes in Minneapolis: Brownie Lake, Cedar Lake, Lake of the Isles, Bde Maka Ska and Lake Harriet. Separate pedestrian and biking trails create less congestion and more stress-free cycling. Rentals are available at Lake Harriet and Maka Ska.

Midtown Greenway
Stretching from the Chain of Lakes to the Mississippi River, the world-famous Midtown Greenway is like a bike highway for south Minneapolis. The 5.5-mile former railroad corridor is grade-separated from the street grid, providing barrier-free and traffic-free bicycling. Find an abundance of local eateries and shops on Lake Street, one block south of the Greenway, or connect to the Hiawatha Bike Trail for direct access to U.S. Bank Stadium.

Mississippi River Trail
Ride the Twin Cities’ portion of the Mississippi River Trail as it follows the mighty river from north Minneapolis to downtown St. Paul and beyond. Make pit stops for iconic Twin Cities landmarks along the way, such as the Stone Arch Bridge, Minnehaha Falls and historic Fort Snelling.

Summit Avenue
Extending across St. Paul from the Mississippi River to downtown, Summit Avenue’s 4.5 miles of tree-lined bicycle lanes offer visitors a time capsule of Victorian-era opulence. Summit boasts the longest stretch of Victorian homes in the entire country, some of which have housed famous residents including Minnesota-born authors F. Scott Fitzgerald and Sinclair Lewis. Stop for tours of the Governor’s Residence, the James J. Hill House and the Cathedral of Saint Paul.

Theodore Wirth Regional Park
Minutes from downtown Minneapolis, a wooded oasis for off-road adventures awaits on Theodore Wirth’s 6 miles of intermediate mountain biking trails. The new Trailhead center creates a hub for outdoor enthusiasts, complete with a bike and ski rental shop, locker rooms, strength and conditioning room, and Cajun Twist restaurant.

Lebanon Hills Regional Park
The variety in both difficulty and scenery on Lebanon Hills’ 12 miles of singletrack trails make it a top choice for Twin Cities mountain bikers. The suburban park, located in Eagan adjacent to the Minnesota Zoo, invites riders of all skill levels to experience routes that transform from rolling hills to wooded lakeside paths, with new sights around each twist and turn. Give your bike a quick tune-up at the park’s West Trailhead facility, which offers a bike repair station, air pump, maps and more.

Bike-Friendly Lodging
MINNESOTA HAS YOU (AND YOUR BIKE) COVERED

Whether you’re in the middle of a cross-country bike tour or simply stretching your legs after a long day of riding, one thing is certain: Bike-centric vacations have distinct lodging needs. Fortunately, these Minnesota lodging facilities embrace their pedaling patrons by committing to bike-friendly policies and perks that are sure to get any bike tourist pumped.

For the camping crowd, True North Basecamp provides mountain bikers with the perfect blend of wilderness and Wi-Fi. Built in the heart of Cuyuna Country State Recreation Area, True North’s 23 campsites and six “north woods industrial” cabins offer modern conveniences like heat and air conditioning just feet away from Cuyuna’s world-famous mountain bike trails.

State parks often make for an excellent bike camping experience, as well. Sakatah Lake State Park—bisected by the 39-mile paved Sakatah Singing Hills Trail that runs between Mankato and Faribault—keeps five campsites permanently on reserve for visitors who bike into the park without motorized vehicles. Mississippi River Trail cyclists will also find five bike-specific campsites at Great River Bluffs State Park, the southernmost state park on the trail’s Minnesota segment.

Or plan a trip to a bike-friendly resort like Giants Ridge in Biwabik, where mountain bikers can shred more than 25 miles of challenging singletrack trails on the resort’s steep, punchy terrain. In the winter, the singletrack trails are even groomed for fat biking. Trail cyclists staying at Giants Ridge can hop on the 115-mile paved Mesabi Trail to pedal to the Iron Range’s famous open-pit mines and friendly small towns.

In real estate, and for bike tourists, location is everything. That philosophy rings true at Embracing Pines Bed & Breakfast, found on the Paul Bunyan State Trail just 7 miles outside downtown Walker. The trailside location and stunning, forest landscape make this B&B a popular spot for bikers. Embracing Pines also offers shuttle service for the Paul Bunyan and Heartland trails.

The most notable bike-friendly hotel in Minneapolis, Le Méridien Chambers, is located in the heart of downtown’s famous theater district, but its complimentary “bicycle programme” is no stage prop. Le Méridien keeps summer- and winter-specific bikes, along with helmets and locks, on hand to keep you pedaling all year-round. Thanks to the hotel’s central location, the city’s dense network of bike lanes and paved trails is at your doorstep. Within minutes of fastening your helmet, you can be snapping photos on the Stone Arch Bridge or exploring the Minneapolis Sculpture Garden. A few more minutes of pedaling gets you to Uptown, the North Loop, Northeast, Loring Park, Cedar Riverside and many other unique neighborhoods. For private or group bike tours, contact Minneapolis By Bike.

NATURALLY
Unforgettable
Minnesota is a Fat Biker’s Paradise

Fat bikes are making their way around Minnesota! But don’t take our word for it: Outside Magazine recently called the state “home to one of the most robust fat biking scenes in the country.” If you haven’t seen them yet, keep an eye out the next time you’re near a Minnesota park, trail or bike shop. These incredible bikes with oversized tires are giving a whole new meaning to the words “winter biking,” especially in Minnesota. Instead of riding on a layer of ice or slush on the side of the road, take your cycling to the beautifully snow-packed hills in the middle of a state park or on a groomed trail.

These days, it’s hard to shake a stick without hitting a Minnesota fat biking trailhead. The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources operates six trail systems across the state that welcome fat bikes, providing intrepid riders more than 60 miles of year-round fat tire fun. The trails vary in difficulty level, but all are groomed specifically for the large, low-pressure tires that give the bikes their name. In addition to the many opportunities for fat biking at state parks and recreation areas, an increasing number of Minnesota’s municipal park systems have also embraced fat bike trails. Head to the Mountain Biking section on page 24 of this guide to find places to ride across the state.

The best way to enjoy a long, snow-filled Minnesota winter is not cooping yourself up indoors; it’s spending it outside. Fat biking is a great way to get outdoors, stay active and embrace the weather all at once. Yes, it may be cold. And, yes, there will be snow. But that just means there are unparalleled opportunities for winter fun. The vast, white winter landscape stretches out in every direction. Your breath crystallizes in mid-air, hanging in front of your face like a mask. The world is a blank canvas, and a fat bike is your paintbrush. There’s simply nothing else like it.

WINTER ROAD BIKING

No fat bike? No problem. For many riders in Minnesota, winter is still road bike season. Thanks to innovations in equipment and clothing, it’s easier than ever to keep riding through the winter (studded tires, anyone?).

Road biking through a Minnesota winter will challenge your mind and your body. Snow-covered expanses of tundra and strong headwinds are the norm, and road grime will try to devour your drivetrain whole.

But for all its challenges, winter road biking in Minnesota is also strikingly beautiful. Many year-round road bikers agree that a sunny, 20-degree day in January is just about the perfect day for a ride. That may sound like an exaggeration, but it’s the truth: Winter road biking in Minnesota is absolutely spectacular.

Southern Minnesota

BLAZING STAR STATE TRAIL

Location: Albert Lea
Distance: 6 miles
Start your journey at Frank Hall Park, then enjoy views of rural landscapes along the Blazing Star State Trail, linking Albert Lea to Myre-Big Island State Park. Pass Albert Lea Lake and scenery including oak savanna, several wetlands, old-growth hardwood forest and a prairie landscape. The trail is a work in progress. When completed, it will be 20 miles long and connect Albert Lea and Austin via Big Island State Park and Hayward.
For more info: 507-414-6193; mndnr.gov/trails. Map online.

CANNON VALLEY TRAIL

Location: Between Cannon Falls and Red Wing
Distance: 19.7 paved miles
Paralleling the Cannon River, the Cannon Valley Trail offers glimpses of the winding river as it passes by wooded hillsides, cliffs, farm fields and rolling pastures. Built on a former railroad line, the mostly flat trail features rest stops to appreciate scenic views. (The grade is never very steep, the trail is mostly shaded, and there are very few crossings.) Start your ride in Cannon Falls, Red Wing or Welch and experience Minnesota small-town hospitality at its best.
Trail fee: $5 daily wheel pass for 18 and over; $25 for a season.

CASEY JONES STATE TRAIL

Location: Currie and Pipestone
Distance: Three main unconnected sections: 13 miles between Pipestone and Woodstock (5 paved miles); a 1.5-mile naturally surfaced segment into the city of Lake Wilson; and a 6-mile paved loop between Lake Shetek State Park and the city of Currie
Named after a famed railroad engineer, the Casey Jones State Trail goes past the countryside as it links Lake Shetek State Park with Currie, home to the End-O-Line Railroad Park and Museum. Finish your ride at the nearby Pipestone National Monument, a sacred American Indian quarry.
For more info: 507-831-2900; mndnr.gov/trails. Map online.

DOUGLAS STATE TRAIL

Location: Between Rochester and Pine Island
Distance: 13 paved miles
Shaded by a canopy of trees, this trail travels past rolling farmland and rural scenery. Several bridges cross the Zumbro River, the northernmost crossing providing entry into Pine Island Park (complete with a playground and picnic shelter) and connecting to historic Main Street. The southern end of the trail links to the extensive bikeways system in Rochester, home of the world-renowned Mayo Clinic.
For more info: 507-206-2847; mndnr.gov/trails. Map online.

GOODHUE PIONEER STATE TRAIL

Location: Between Red Wing and Zumbrota
Distance: 4 paved miles from Red Wing to Hay Creek (connects to Cannon Valley Trail); 4.5 paved miles in Zumbrota (connects to city trail system)
It’s not unusual to see wild turkeys, partridges, foxes and pheasants as you pass through a scenic mix of tallgrass prairies, maple and basswood forests, and oak savanna. When complete, the trail will span 47 miles and connect Red Wing, Goodhue, Mazeppa, Bellechester and Pine Island.
For more info: 507-206-2847; mndnr.gov/trails. Map online.

GREAT RIVER RIDGE STATE TRAIL

Location: Between Plainview and near Eyota, northeast of Rochester
Distance: 13 paved miles
Built on a former railroad grade, the Great River Ridge State Trail is a fairly easy ride (even recommended for kids), becoming gradually hilly at Elgin. See prairie flowers and cross a 100-year-old trestle. Two additional miles into Eyota are in the works.
For more info: 507-206-2847; mndnr.gov/trails. Map online.

HARMONY-PRESTON VALLEY STATE TRAIL

Location: Between Harmony and Preston, southeast of Rochester
Distance: 18 paved miles (connects to Root River State Trail)
This area lives up to its Bluff Country nickname with wooded, rolling countryside, winding rivers and charming towns. Unlike trail sections that follow old railroad routes, the path between Harmony and Preston zips up and down steep hills. There’s a mix of woods, fields and attractions—like a toy museum, goat farm and shops carrying Amish handcrafts—along the way.

For more info: 507-206-2847; mndnr.gov/trails. Map online.

RED JACKET TRAIL 🍁

Location: Between Mankato and Rapidan
Distance: 6 miles of paved trails (connects to other trails)

Two small parks lie along the short, scenic Red Jacket Trail: Weagel Park, 1 mile south of Mankato, and Red Jacket Trail Park on the Le Sueur River, with parking at both locations. The trail itself passes Mount Kato, a ski area and mountain bike park, before traveling along a wooded, secluded hillside over railroad trestles, past rural scenery and into the village of Rapidan, where you can bike to the Dam Store for a slice of pie.

For more info: 507-304-4025; blueearthcountymn.gov. Map online.

ROOT RIVER STATE TRAIL 🍀

Location: From Fountain through Lanesboro, Whalan, Peterson, Rushford and Houston
Distance: 42 paved miles (connects to Harmony-Preston Valley State Trail)

The Root River State Trail has a reputation as the “Cadillac of Trails,” with beautiful scenery (limestone cliffs, pastures, fields of wildflowers, wooden bridges, a river) and plenty of small-town attractions. It doesn’t follow an old railroad track and it’s not flat, only adding to the adventure. Lanesboro attracts thousands of bikers every year.

For more info: 507-206-2847; mndnr.gov/trails. Map online.

SAKATAH SINGING HILLS STATE TRAIL 🌋

Location: Between Faribault and Mankato
Distance: 39 paved miles

The big woods meet the prairie along the mostly straight, mostly flat Sakatah (pronounced Sah-KAH-tah) Singing Hills State Trail. The trail runs through a landscape of farmland, river crossings, lakes, wetlands and woods, with trees shading most of the corridor. One of the trail’s anchor towns, Faribault, consists of beautiful old storefronts, antique shops and restaurants.

For more info: 507-698-7852; mndnr.gov/trails. Map online.

SHOOTING STAR STATE TRAIL 🌼

Location: Between LeRoy and Rose Creek
Distance: 20 paved miles

This trail, named for a prairie flower, lives up to its name with colorful prairie flowers in full bloom in late summer and early fall. Experience rural Minnesota in tiny Taopi (fewer than 100 residents) and LeRoy (less than 1,000). The trail passes through quiet Lake Louise State Park, with a picnic area and swimming beach on the old millpond. When completed, the trail will also connect to Austin and Lyle.

For more info: 507-414-6193; mndnr.gov/trails. Map online.
Central Minnesota

CENTRAL LAKES STATE TRAIL
Location: Between Fergus Falls and Osakis
Distance: 55 paved miles (connects to Lake Wobegon Trail)
Wildflowers, prairie grasses, open fields, rolling hills, wetland ponds and wildlife add to the scenery on the fairly secluded Central Lakes State Trail. Lakes, barns and pastures are also part of the landscape.
For more info: 218-739-7576; mndnr.gov/trails. Map online.

CUYUNA LAKES STATE TRAIL
Location: Between Crosby and Riverton
Distance: 8 paved miles within Cuyuna Country Recreation Area; 1 mile passes through Aitkin along Highway 169
This is an exceptionally scenic route through Cuyuna Country State Recreation Area, offering views of crystal clear lakes (former mining pits), streams, woods and relics of the area’s mining past.
For more info: 218-203-4442; mndnr.gov/trails. Map online.

GLACIAL LAKES STATE TRAIL
Location: Between Willmar and Paynesville, and Roscoe and Cold Spring
Distance: 22 miles between Willmar and the Kandiyohi/Sterns County line; 5 miles from Richmond to Roscoe
From Willmar to Spicer, this trail goes by pastures, fields of corn and soybeans, ponds and wetlands. About midway, at Spicer, cool off in Green Lake. North of here, the trail crosses a bridge over Nest Lake and skirts to the east of New London.
For more info: 320-796-2161; mndnr.gov/trails. Map online.

LAKE WOBEGON TRAIL
Location: Between St. Joseph and Osakis, with a spur north from Albany to Holdingford
Distance: 63 paved miles
This trail, inspired by the fictional Minnesota town where all the children are above average, leads riders past farmland, lakes, and near two college campuses, two monasteries and the childhood home of Nobel Prize-winning author Sinclair Lewis. Experience peaceful stretches of farm country, lakes and wetlands. The Lake Wobegon Trail connects to the Central Lakes and Soo Line trails, providing more than 125 continuous miles of paved biking trails.
For more info: 800-264-2940; lakewobegontrail.com. Map online.

MILLE LACS SOO LINE TRAIL
Location: Between Onamia and Isle, south of Mille Lacs Lake
Distance: 11 paved miles
Travel from Father Hennepin State Park in Isle to Kathio State Park in Onamia for a remote ride along a paved trail with some low-volume highway travel. Ride to the 100-foot observation tower overlooking Mille Lacs Lake (the state’s second-largest inland lake). The trail connects with the Soo Line bridge over Highway 169.
For more info: 888-350-2692; millelacs.com.

Northwest Minnesota

GREATER GRAND FORKS GREENWAY
Location: East Grand Forks
Distance: 10 paved miles (in Minnesota)
Winding along the Red River and Red Lake River, the Greater Grand Forks Greenway provides 2,200 acres of natural space along the border of North Dakota and Minnesota. There are approximately 10 miles of paved trails on each side of the state line, creating 20 total miles of multi-use paths to enjoy. The trails pass by parks, two golf courses, campgrounds and sites for year-round recreation. The Greenway connects to the greater Grand Forks trail system.
For more info: 701-746-2750; greenwaygff.com. Map online.

HEARTLAND STATE TRAIL
Location: Between Park Rapids and Cass Lake
Distance: 49 paved miles
The original stretch of the Heartland State Trail between Park Rapids and Walker passes through farmland and wooded areas, near marshes and lakes. You can cool off at the beach, pose for a selfie with Paul Bunyan in Akeley or visit charming restaurants and shops. The trail connects with the expansive Paul Bunyan State Trail near Walker.
For more info: 218-308-2372; mndnr.gov/trails. Map online.

MIGIZI TRAIL
Location: Cass Lake
Distance: 19 paved miles (connects to Heartland State Trail)
Watch for soaring eagles as you ride among the big pines on the Migizi Trail (Migizi is the Ojibwe word for “eagle”), a Chippewa National Forest trail forming a wide horseshoe around three sides of Pike Bay. The trail travels through conifer and northern hardwoods, across wetlands and along the Pike Bay lakeshore. After crossing Highway 2, a mile and a half of the trail juts out to Narrative Beach Recreation Area, a popular campground in the summer.
For more info: 218-335-8600; fs.usda.gov/chippewa.

PAUL BUNYAN STATE TRAIL
Location: From Crow Wing State Park in the Brainerd Lakes to Lake Bemidji State Park
Distance: 115 paved miles (not including short on-road connections through Baxter and Bemidji)
The Paul Bunyan State Trail is the longest continuously paved Minnesota bike trail, connecting to the Heartland State Trail, the Blue Ox Trail and the Cuyuna State Trail. The final paved portion of the trail was finished in 2014, connecting Guthrie south through Laporte toward Walker and Brainerd/Baxter south to Crow Wing State Park. With the paving of these segments, the Paul Bunyan State Trail, ranging from flat and open to hilly and scenic, offers 115 miles of paved trail for all levels of riders.

For more info: 218-308-2372; mndnr.gov/trails. Map online.

Northeast Minnesota

GITCHI-GAMI STATE TRAIL

Location: Along the North Shore of Lake Superior

Distance: 30 paved miles in five segments; the longest section is 17 miles from Gooseberry Falls State Park to Silver Bay

Biking this trail is an excellent way to take in the beauty of the North Shore, with dramatic views of Lake Superior. When completed, the trail will be 89 paved miles connecting Two Harbors to Grand Marais. Some of the trail runs parallel to Highway 61, and other parts travel through state parks on hilly terrain. One spur leads to the photo-worthy Split Rock Lighthouse. The 3-mile stretch from Schroeder to Tofte passes through the scenic Temperance River State Park, offering views of Carlton Peak.

MESABI TRAIL

Location: Between Grand Rapids and Ely

Distance: More than 135 miles of paved trails. The longest section connects Grand Rapids to Highway 135 just beyond Giants Ridge in Biwabik—about 95 miles. Other pieces include spurs around Grand Rapids, Chisholm, Eveleth and Aurora; with additional trail around Tower and Ely.

Built partially on old railroad beds, logging and mining roads, the Mesabi Trail takes riders through northeast Minnesota and the Iron Range, into woods, near creeks and ponds, and by several old mining pits filled with emerald green water. When completed, the Mesabi Trail will traverse 155 miles and connect to 28 communities.

Trail fee: A wheel pass is required for those 18 and over using a wheeled device; $5 for a three-day pass or $15 for a season pass. These passes are available online or from vendors along the trail.

For more info: 877-637-2241; mesabitrail.com.

WILLARD MUNGER STATE TRAIL

Location: Between Hinckley and Duluth

Distance: 70 paved miles (connects to 6-mile Alex Laveau Memorial Trail)

For panoramic views of the St. Louis River, hit the northeast part of this trail, running past rugged rock-cuts and rock outcrops. The southern part of the trail meanders through shaded rural countryside with picturesque small towns along the route. Points of interest include the Hinckley Fire Museum and Jay Cooke State Park.

For more info: 218-460-7021; mndnr.gov/trails. Map online.

ON-ROAD Touring

USBR 41: North Star Route (NSR)

It takes less than three hours to drive from St. Paul to Duluth on the highway. That same trip could take anywhere from two to four days by bike—and that’s not a downside, it’s a plus. Traveling by bike is all about slowing down to explore the spaces between: The towns between highway ramps, the roadside attractions between towns. So slow down a bit and explore the North Star Route, Minnesota’s newest on-road designated bike route. Beginning at the State Capitol in St. Paul, you’ll head north for 315 miles until reaching the Minnesota/Canada border at Grand Portage State Park. In the space between those two far-flung destinations, the North Star Route passes through nine state parks and two national parks, and connects the Mississippi River, the world’s fourth-longest, to Lake Superior, the world’s largest freshwater lake.

- Location: Grant to Stillwater
- Distance: Nearly 6 paved miles

Following a portion of the former Minnesota Zephyr railroad route, this generally level trail follows Brown’s Creek (a designated trout stream with a nicely shaded canopy), navigates golf courses and crosses over Manning Avenue on a pedestrian bridge. It connects with the Gateway State Trail in the city of Grant, enabling trail users to go from the St. Croix River in downtown Stillwater to the mighty Mississippi in downtown St. Paul. Stop at the audio listening station to hear bird songs, frog calls and learn about nature found along the trail.

CEDAR LAKE LRT REGIONAL TRAIL + MINNESOTA RIVER BLUFFS LRT REGIONAL TRAIL
- Location: Between Hopkins and Minneapolis
- Distance: 16.75 miles (paved east of Hopkins; aggregate west of Hopkins)

Enjoy the best of both worlds—urban skylines and suburban tranquility—on this popular trail linking the western suburbs to downtown Minneapolis and passing by Target Field (reportedly the most “biked-to” ballpark in the country). A downtown segment connects to the Mississippi River Trail’s portion of the Grand Rounds bikeway. In Hopkins, the Cedar Lake LRT Regional Trail connects to the limestone-surfaced Minnesota River Bluffs LRT Regional Trail.

DAKOTA RAIL REGIONAL TRAIL
- Location: Between Wayzata and New Germany
- Distance: 26 paved miles

This trail meanders through beautiful suburban and rural areas on the west side of the Twin Cities, offering both town and country views. It passes the two largest lakes in the metro, Minnetonka and Waconia, as well as Gale Woods Farm.

GATEWAY STATE TRAIL
- Location: Between St. Paul and Pine Point Park, north of Stillwater
- Distance: 18 paved miles

This trail runs from downtown St. Paul to the countryside of Stillwater, a pretty, safe, mostly shaded route. Although the trail is relatively flat—with an excellent mix of parks, lakes, wetlands and prairies along the way—there are some challenging hills in the Stillwater area. It connects to Brown’s Creek State Trail in Grant. In addition to biking, the Gateway State Trail is popular for in-line skating, walking and jogging, so if you prefer a quiet ride, go midweek.

GRAND ROUNDS BIKE TRAILS
- Location: Minneapolis
- Distance: Over 51 miles

Get to know Minneapolis on a tour of the Grand Rounds, a national scenic byway featuring bike trails mostly separated from pedestrian trails and roadways. Cycle past historic homes, Nicollet Island, St. Anthony Falls, the Stone Arch Bridge, Minnehaha Creek, Minnehaha Falls, the Weisman Art Museum, Chain of Lakes, Theodore Wirth Park (stop at the wildflower garden and bird sanctuary) and Victory Memorial Drive, honoring the soldiers of World War I. For a longer ride, the southern loop along the scenic (and often shaded) Mississippi River is the way to go.

Mississippi River Trail (MRT)

Like all great journeys, cycling the Mississippi River Trail begins quite humbly: At a shallow stream in Itasca State Park, the headwaters, barely moving at all. But as you cycle downriver along the Mississippi, the small river gradually becomes larger, picks up speed and grows into its awe-inspiring reputation.

Along its winding path to the state’s southern border, the MRT contains more than 700 miles of roads and paved trails and passes through dozens of welcoming cities and towns. You’ll ride among Minnesota’s ancient pine woods, conquer soaring river bluffs, and find an abundance of natural and cultural highlights. But before all that, your epic MRT adventure will start humbly: One pedal stroke at a time.

LUCE LINE STATE TRAIL
Location: Plymouth though Watertown, Winsted, and Silver Lake to Hutchinson
Distance: 63 miles—limestone from Plymouth to Winsted, paved from Winsted to Hutchinson, crushed granite from Hutchinson to Cedar Mills and natural (mowed grass) from Cedar Mills to Cosmos.

In the east, pass the Wood-Rill Scientific and Natural Area (approximately 99.9 percent of Minnesota’s “Big Woods” have been cut down, but in this area, 200-year-old trees tower over the scenic site). From Hutchinson westward, the scenery shifts to tallgrass prairie. Sections of this trail feel like riding down a quiet country road.

MIDTOWN GREENWAY
Location: Minneapolis
Distance: 5.5 miles

The Midtown Greenway, sometimes referred to as a “freeway for bikes,” is the perfect year-round urban bike experience, with the wide, smooth, mostly flat trail giving riders a taste of Minneapolis from the Mississippi River to Uptown and the Chain of Lakes area—without having to worry about busy vehicle traffic. On the western end of the trail, the Greenway connects with the Cedar Lake LRT Regional Trail, linking Minneapolis to St. Louis Park, Hopkins and beyond. The eastern end connects to the West River Parkway along the Mississippi River. There’s a bike shop in the middle section and Midtown Global Market nearby. The Greenway also connects to the Hiawatha LRT Trail, providing access to the West Bank and University of Minnesota and over the freeway into downtown Minneapolis.

SUNRISE PRAIRIE TRAIL/HARDWOOD CREEK TRAIL
Location: Between North Branch and Hugo
Distance: 26 paved miles

Between North Branch and Forest Lake, the Sunrise Prairie Trail passes alongside residential areas, farmlands, hardwood forests and wetlands, and bridges the Sunrise River at two sites. Stop and rest at Stacy Lions Park, where there are picnic tables, a shelter, drinking fountain and restrooms. In Washington County near Forest Lake, the trail becomes the Hardwood Creek Trail; this section parallels Highway 61 south to Hugo. Parking areas are available in each of the cities along the trail: North Branch, Stacy, Wyoming and at the Forest Lake Transit Center.

Location: Crosby-Ironton area

Distance: 30 miles of singletrack trails

Designated as a silver-level Ride Center by the International Mountain Bicycling Association, Cuyuna is recognized as one of the top trail systems in the world. This purpose-built trail system winds through a landscape created by 70 years of iron ore mining, where water-filled mining pits are now deep, crystal clear lakes. The varying terrain makes for great mountain biking territory. The singletrack trails are carved into the rocky landscape, circling lakes and winding over hills, through the woods, and across bridges over little ravines. Elevated areas offer outstanding views of the landscape’s many natural and mine lakes. The trails range from easy to extremely difficult. The Miner’s Mountain Rally Center welcomes visitors and provides a place for picnics and views of the Huntington Mine Lake.

New in 2019, the Miner’s Mountain bike skills area features jump lines and technical skill areas for mountain biking. An overnight yurt campground, managed by the Minnesota DNR, is also available to cycling enthusiasts. For more info: 218-546-5926; cuyuna.com

Location: Detroit Lakes

Distance: 11 miles + more in progress

The professionally designed mountain biking area—engineered to host all levels of mountain bike enthusiasts—features gravity-fed trails, a skills park, and tight and twisty singletrack, contour and downhill flow trails. Trails are open from sun up to sun down, with an honor pay system. Bikes are available for rent at the on-site shop. There’s even a Strider Adventure Zone just for kids 18 months to 5 years, encouraging them to have fun while developing balance, motor skills and confidence.

DULUTH TRAILS

Location: Around Duluth

Distance: Varies

Mountain bike near the scenic shore of Lake Superior, through wooded hillsides and over hilly terrain—ranging from beginner-friendly flow trails to advanced/expert trails that take advantage of the city’s rocky landscape. Mission Creek Trails have 25 miles of beginner-intermediate level trail overlooking the St. Louis River and Mission Creek valleys. (The trailhead is located in Chambers Grove Park on Duluth’s far western edge.) At Spirit Mountain, you’ll find lift-served downhill trails ranging from beginner to expert. Brewer Park features 5 miles, from beginner to advanced, with the trailhead located on Haines Road; Piedmont, perched high atop Duluth’s hillside (taking advantage of the abundant bedrock features) has 10 miles from beginner to expert, with the trailhead located on Hutchinson Road. Hartley Park has 7 miles of beginner to intermediate trails, with access from Hartley Nature Center on Woodland Avenue; and Lester Park, with the trailhead on Lester River Road at the junction of Superior Street, has 11 miles from beginner to intermediate.

The Duluth Traverse, a singletrack trail connecting to the aforementioned trail systems, currently has 15 miles complete, with more construction in progress.

Trail fee: Spirit Mountain all-day lift pass $30. Helmets required. Trails and chairlift may be closed during inclement weather. Prices subject to change.

SUPERIOR NATIONAL FOREST 🌱

Location: Around Ely, Tofte and Grand Marais

Distance: Varies

The Superior National Forest is a hot spot for mountain biking up north. In addition to forest roads, there are designated mountain bike routes throughout the forest. Most of these routes follow old logging roads, altering in terrain and types of road surface (gravel, dirt, etc.). The routes range from easy hill climbs and smooth surfaces to thrilling routes that test the skills of even the most experienced mountain biker.

In addition to logging roads, the Superior National Forest and partners have developed a series of singletrack mountain biking trails with off-road trails near Tofte, starting from the Britton Peak Hiking Trailhead, and in the Pincushion Mountain Recreation Area in Grand Marais.

B-26 Biking Guide 2019-20
Minnesota STATE FORESTS

Minnesota's numerous state forests are rich with scenic gravel roads and dirt trails, providing mountain bikers a variety of off-the-beaten-path adventures. State forest roads can range from asphalt to gravel, so riders seeking a smooth road surface should look elsewhere. However, riders with the right attitude (and tires) will find unparalleled beauty along Minnesota's over 2,000 miles of backcountry forest roads and logging trails. Mountain biking is permitted on all state forest roads and trails unless posted closed, except in the Richard J. Dorer Memorial Hardwood Forest, where mountain bikes are permitted only on designated trails. These areas are multiple use, so riders must watch for vehicles on roads, and hikers, ATVs and other trail users. For a full list of state forests and their trail mileage, along with any road or trail closures, visit mndnr.gov/biking.
