MINNESOTA

GOLF GUIDE

#ONLYINMN

"Minnesota boasts nearly 500 golf courses, 6,985 holes of golf encompassing 65,400 acres of green space."

"While you're here, we invite you to explore all that makes Minnesota a great place to visit."

While Minnesotans know our state is a hotbed for golf, many visitors are surprised by the caliber of the courses they find in the True North. There's a reason why Minnesota will be the first state to host the Ryder Cup on the same course twice, and why we've hosted every major tournament from the U.S. Open to the PGA Championships to the new 3M Open.

Minnesota boasts nearly 500 golf courses, 6,985 holes of golf encompassing approximately 65,400 acres of green space and over 4,400 acres of wetlands. Ninety percent of our golf courses are open to the public, including 26 resorts and 12 standalone driving ranges.

Minnesota's golf season, beginning in April and running into November, spans some of the best "golfing weather" found anywhere in the continental U.S. Daylight in June and July lasts 16 hours, allowing for plenty of time to get 36 holes in, and the turf and playing conditions reach their peak in August and September, when golfers can usually enjoy the outdoors comfortably attired in shorts.

When you pair accessibility with quality (weather and playing conditions) and great value, you begin to understand what sets Minnesota apart from other golf destinations. For the intrepid golfer, discovering our golf gems makes for exceptionally rewarding travels.

While you're here, we invite you to explore all that makes Minnesota a great place to visit. Fabulous lodging options, from lakeside resorts and campgrounds to downtown hotels to charming bed-and-breakfasts, offer more than just a place to rest your head. Restaurants, breweries, museums, shops and charming downtowns will turn your golf vacation into much more than that.

Visit exploreminnesota.com to plan your Minnesota golf getaway, and share how you find your True North with hashtag #OnlyinMN.

Sincerely,

Tom Ryan, Executive Director,
Minnesota Golf Association
